CERTIFICATION REVIEW WEEKENDS

MED-SURG:

May 9-10 ~ Manchester

July 18-19 ~ Lebanon

CRITICAL CARE:

Nov. 7-8 ~ Rochester

What is Certification?

The American Board of Nursing Specialties (ABNS) defines certification as, "the formal recognition of the specialized knowledge, skills, and experience demonstrated by the achievement of standards identified by a nursing specialty to promote optimal health outcomes." After meeting defined eligibility criteria, a certification candidate achieves a nationally recognized credential through successful completion of a rigorous examination.

Why does professional certification matter?

- Prestige for the individual and a competitive advantage over non-certified individuals in the same field.
- Enhanced employment opportunities and earning potential.
- A more productive and highly trained workforce for employers.
- Assisting employers in making more informed hiring decisions.
- Assisting consumers in making informed decisions about qualified providers.
- Establishment of a professional standard for individuals in a particular field.

If you are considering taking either a Med-Surg Certification exam through ANCC or AMSN, or the Critical Care exam through AACN, you'll want to sign up for one of these invaluable sessions - offered at very special rates! Also great for any nurse who just wants to keep current or review and refresh knowledge!

PRESENTER:

Theresa Posani
MS, RN, ACNS-BC
Critical Care Clinical
Nurse Specialist

Ms. Posani has over 30 years of nursing experience and has presented similar certification review courses for both the American Nurses Credential Center (AMSN) and the Academy of Medical Surgical Nurses (AMSN). She has contributed extensively to nursing literature with articles in journals and textbooks. She is both a local and internationally recognized speaker and NHNA is grateful to have her expertise.
