

“Cursing in Nursing”

The Rationale Behind the Behavior and Strategies on How We Can Change our Thinking to Improve the Work Environment

Learn to evaluate and improve communication in healthcare settings. Workshop activities will focus on developing an awareness of language, how it affects us, and its effect on patient safety with special emphasis on the physiological effects of profanity. Strategies for changing practice in the workplace will be explored, understanding that better language helps create a more supportive environment for both nurses and patients.

At the conclusion of this activity learners will be able to utilize strategies to enhance well-being, professionalism, safety, and respectful communication in the healthcare setting.

Disclaimer: Strong language will be used for demonstrative purposes.
